Indian Residential School – Band Reparations Class Action

BACKGROUND

The Indian Residential School Day Scholars Class Action (Gottfriedson v Canada, Federal Court File No. T-1542-12) was originally brought on behalf of Day Scholars and their descendants. Day Scholars are students who attended Indian Residential Schools during the day but who did not stay overnight. The lawsuit had been amended and now included a Band Class in addition to the Individual (Day Scholars) Class. The lawsuit claims that Indian Residential Schools destroyed language and culture, violated cultural and linguistic rights, and caused psychological harms to members in both classes.

The “Band Reparations Class Action”

Tk’emlúps te Secwépemc Indian Band and Shishalh Band sued the Government of Canada claiming that the Government is responsible for the collective harm Bands suffered due to their members’ loss of language and culture at Indian Residential Schools.

This lawsuit is about the collective harm suffered by Indigenous communities as a group, resulting from Indian Residential School impacts.

CURRENT

Resulting from an extended deadline of June 30, 2022, Delaware Nation (Moravian of the Thames) joined in to this Gottfriedson Class Action in the fight for compensation for the collective harm suffered by many Nations, resulting from the loss of and damage to our languages and cultures. There are 326 First Nations across Canada who have opted-in.

A Settlement Agreement has been reached between the Representative Plaintiff Bands and the Government of Canada which fully and finally resolves the Band Reparations Class Action. The Government will make a payment of $2,800,000,000.00 (two billion eight hundred million dollars) to an established Trust/Not-for-Profit fund.

The agreement is based on the Four Pillar principles, namely:

- Revival and protection of Indigenous languages;

- Revival and protection of Indigenous cultures;
- Wellness for Indigenous communities and their members; and
- Promotion and protection of heritage

Planning funds:

Each Band Class member will receive an initial one-time payment of $200,000 for the purposes of developing a plan to carry out one or more of the objectives and purposes of the Four Pillars.

Initial Kick-Start Funds:

Upon receipt and review of a plan from a band, the fund shall disburse the Initial Kick Start Funds, which shall be equal to the Band's proportionate share of $325,000,000.00 (a share with an equal 40% base to each band and remaining 60% to be used for population adjustments).

Annual Entitlement:

Each Band will receive a share of annual investment income that is available for distribution. That share will be equal to the Band's proportionate share.

This funding will operate for a period 20 years.

RECOMMENDATIONS

It was recommended that a Working Group Task Force be established that develops the plan that fall within the above mentioned Four Pillars.

"It's a shocking fact that 1 in 4 Canadian children start their day hungry, meaning more than a million kids don't have access to a healthy meal before they go to school. This would be unacceptable anywhere, but in a prosperous country like Canada, this is unimaginable. The time for action is now.

Breakfast programs in our schools have a tremendous impact on a child's life, on school communities and on families. By providing access to a nutritious meal to our children as they start their day, they learn more easily, and have the chance to develop their full potential."

Natural DIY Workshop

Series #3: Laundry

LOCATION CHANGE

In our society we use far too many chemicals that adversely affect our health and the health of our families.

With rising prices and regular cleaning products making us sick, we could benefit from learning to use a less expensive and more natural laundry alternative.

Come join us in creating some everyday laundry products the natural way!
